

Computer Integrated Manufacturing (CIM) Laboratory provides students with many challenging hands-on experiences in the automation field. Students are given with an exposure to write part programs for different machining processes like milling, drilling and turning.